II INTRODUCTION

II INTRODUCTION

1. Aim in this study

The aim of this study is to determine the Primitive and the Historical material in the stories concerning Jesus as found in the Godpels. This choice will be used as the basis for a later study of Jesus' Teachings and will become a part of that thesis.

2. Method used

The method used is as follows:

1. I point out the author's purpose or aim in writing his gospel.
2. I point out the author's characteristics.
3. I try to date each Gospel as to the time it was written.

These give me the basis for choosing the Gospels to be used for this purpose, and for the sorting out of the sources of this material and designating which is Primitive. From this Primitive material I obtain my Historical material.

1. Matthew's Gospel

A. Purpose

1. This Gospel was written to show that the Life and Work of Jesus Christ made a definite link with the Old Testament, and that Jesus of Nazareth is the long expected Messiah of his people, at once David's son and David's Lord: hence that Christianity was the true consummation of Judaism.

2. Some writers think Matthew was written for a definite Local Church, perhaps Antioch.

3. Since the Jews had rejected Jesus as the Messiah, He now became the Savior of all Nations. Now the Kingdom is no longer distinctly Jewish, and it abolished all Jewish limitations.

4. The author aimed to give in a sense history or a biographical sketch of Jesus, told in a narrative style.

5. Matthew aimed to set forth a new legalism, a new set of laws.

B. Characteristics

1. The author was a Christian Rabbi and selected and interpreted from that point of view.
2. He is a man of details and gives long detailed general outlines.
3. He used the direct discourse.
4. Matthew is carelessly edited. It is unfinished, broken, undeveloped, and the inconsistencies are not ironed out.
5. Matthew places Jesus as the founder of the Christian Church.
6. The author places the Gentile Church in place of the Jewish Church, by the sacrifice of Jesus, the Son of God. The Christian Church became the new law, for the followers of teachings of Jesus.

7. Matthew is a Catholic Gospel. This is shown by (a) Peter, (b) inclusiveness, (c) sentiment, (d) tone, (e) the equation of the church with the kingdom.

8. Jesus is represented as a wonder worker, being at once human and divine, the son of Mary and of God. He is a man without sin upon whom the spirit of God descended at baptism. After this experience He was filled with supernatural power.

9. Matthew believed in the immediacy of the parousia, 10:23; 16:27-28; 24:29.

10. His common adverb is 'then'.

11. This book is less touched by the spirit of Paul than any of the other books of the New Testament.

12. Matthew is meant to serve as a manual of apologetics as well as a book for church use and law.

13. The author copies seven eighths of Mark's Gospel. Streeter states that Matthew is a fresh edition of Mark. It is revised, enriched and rearranged. He changed many of Mark's vivid 'historical present' into past tenses.

C. Date of Matthew's Gospel

The dating of this Gospel has been of wide range. Dealing with the scholarship of the past 100 years, we find the earliest date is by Cornely of 1897 at 40 A.D.; the latest date by Baur of 1847 and Pfleiderer of 1903 at 140 minus. Most of the scholars up to 1900 have placed it between 60 and 100. The men after 1900 have as a whole placed it between 70 and 90.

The arguments for the writing after 70 are based on Matthew using Mark. Mark would have to be old enough to be in popular use, having been written between 65 and 70. Then 22:7 And having heard it the king was wroth, and having sent his forces, he destroyed those murderers, and he burned their city. This refers to the burning of Jerusalem, which took place in 70 A.D.

The arguments for a date earlier than 90 are based chiefly on external evidence. Matthew is used in the Didache, and probably was known to the author of the Fourth Gospel. The Didache was written about 100, and the Fourth Gospel about 90 to 95. Thus a date for Matthew later than 85 is improbable. Another argument for the 1st century is that the strong Judaic element would have discredited it, if it had appeared in the second century.

I think Matthew was written near 85. This would have given Mark's Gospel on which it depends some 20 years in which to circulate and become the famous book of the Christian Church.

2. Mark's Gospel

2. Mark's Gospel

A. Purpose

It is commonly thought that this Gospel was written from Rome or some other point outside of Palistine, and for Gentile readers. This is clearly seen when we see that Mark omits much of the Jewish detail that is preserved in the ordinary synoptic traditions, yet he is very careful to explain the Jewish (1) customs, (2) phrases, and (3) names.

1. Customs-7:3-4;15:42.

2. Phrases-5:41;7:34.

3. Names-3:17;10:46.

We see he wrote the Gospel to win the Gentiles to the Christian Faith by presenting Jesus the Hero Savior: that is, with supernatural authority over demons and the under-world. On the basis of this he is called the Savior of man. He starts with the man we call Jesus grown up. He shows in a very dramatic style how Jesus lived and acted, while on this earth among men. In this way he stresses the miracles and the parables or the teachings of Jesus. In these teachings we have Jesus proclaiming the good news of the Kingdom. This brings up the crowning thought, that Jesus was the Son of God. He had the authority of God and could use it.

A further purpose is to show the end of the world is near at hand.

B.Characteristics

1. Mark was written by a Jew outside of Palistine and to a Greek speaking Church.

2. It was steeped in Semitic modes of thought, which is shown by the structure of his sentences and the idioms from Hebrew life.

3. It reads like an impromptu speech, with the repetitions, redundancies and digressions characteristic of living speech.

4. He was an imperfect Greek scholar, who habitually thought in Aramaic and wrote such colloquial Greek as he was able to achieve. Yet his writing is not without some feeling, as shown in the use of the imperfect tenses and some arrested Greek words.

5. He is little concerned with either chronological or psychological developement.

6. He is a man of decided opinions, one might even call them prejudices, 4:11-12.

7. He had a great love for symbolism, 15:33; 15:38.

8. A few details of his speech:

a. A terse, simple and graphic style.

b. Fond of diminutives.

c. Fond of the Historical Present.

d. He is a man of 'ands'.

e. He uses direct discourse.

f. Three common adverbs-immediately, again, much or many times.

9. He is peculiarly fond of numbers-1:13; 5:25; 6:7; 4:1f; 6:37;.

10. He follows the custom, as far as possible, of not giving exact names of places to persons or places; a general idea is all that is necessary for the Eastern mind.

11. His most common expression is "straightway",
1:12,18,20,21,23,28,29,42,43.

C. Date of Mark's Gospel

The dating of this Gospel had been of wide range. Dealing with the scholarship of the past 75 years, we find the earliest date is by Belser of 1902 at 44 A.D. The latest date is by Baur of 1847 at 130 plus. Yet most scholars up to 1900 have placed it between 64 and 80. The men after 1900 have as a whole placed it between 65 and 70.

The arguments for a date prior to 70 are based on the 13th chapter. Jerusalem is still standing. We find that Jerusalem was destroyed in 70 A.D. Hence the Gospel must have been written before that date.

The arguments for the writing after 64 are based on the thought that Mark wrote it after Peter's death: that is, they think Mark wrote it down in shorthand as Peter gave it to him, either during their journeys together or while in Rome, and wrote it up after Peter's death which occurred about 64 or 65 A.D. Therefore we place Mark's date between 65 and 70.

3. LUKE'S GOSPEL

3. Luke's Gospel

A. Purpose

1. Luke was written for the Roman World, with special interest in certain members of the royal aristocracy, who were suspicious of some weakness in Judaism, in that the Jews were disloyal to the Roman Law. Luke therefore shows the Christian religion to be orderly and there were no innovations against the state.

2. Luke was written to show the legalistic view of the Bible to both Jews and Gentiles. The Christian religion was to be a world movement, no longer to be just a Jewish sect, but to be world wide. Even the Roman court found nothing wrong with the leader; "I find nothing wrong with this man."

3. Luke was written to show that Christianity had kept the course and has a supernatural source.

4. The outstanding objective in this book is religion.

5. Theophilus needed to be confirmed in the basis of the Pauline Gospel, and the writer of Luke had this in mind.

6. If the leading note in the first Gospel is Loyalty, and of the second is Power, that of the third is Love. We see the human element of Jesus.

7. Luke aims to depict the Messiah as the Savior of all men and the satisfier of all human needs.

8. Luke, seeing our Christianity about to enter high society, realized a demand for the life of Jesus in a different literary style, one which would not jar the educated class. Luke tried to meet this demand.

B.Characteristics

1. Luke was written by one author. This author seems to have been a Gentile; he wrote so as to carry conviction to the Greeks.

2. Luke is a collection of sayings drawn from various sources.

3. Luke follows Mark's order of events.

4. Luke changes the picture of Jesus, in giving the Human aspects of the Master.

5. The style of Luke is the best of the books of the New Testament.

a. He used the Hellenistic style.

b. The Greek is the Best.

c. The preface is rated among the highest literature.

d. His vocabulary is large.

e. Luke is very dramatic.

6. Luke is written for publication.

7. Twelve thirteenths or seven eights of Mark is found in Luke, so we see Luke practically copied Mark, adding his interpretations.

8. Luke is fond of using "and it came to pass."

9. The author is very fond of using questions in order to make good connections or to vivify the situations, 3:10-15; 6:38; 22:48, 49, 51.

C. Date of Luke's Gospel

The dating of this Gospel has been of wide range. Dealing with the scholarship of the past 150 years, we find the earliest date is by Kupper of 1902 at 53, the latest date by Baur of 1847 at 130. Most of the scholars up to 1900 have placed it between 70 and 100. The men after 1900 have as a whole placed it between 70 and 90.

The arguments for the writing after 70 are based on (1) Luke's use of Mark. Mark would have to be old enough to be in popular use, having been written between 65-70. (2) In 19:43 and 21:20 we see that Jerusalem has fallen, and this took place in 70. (3) As Easton states, in the "Gospel According to St. Luke", p 35, "None of the sources of Luke need have been written later than 65."

The arguments for a date prior to 90 are based chiefly on external evidences. The Gospel of Luke was becoming the standard work in the Christian fellowship by the time of the Fourth Gospel (or at least one of the standard works). John's Gospel was written about 90 to 95.

Such evidence as we have is best satisfied by placing Luke in the same period as Matthew. Some writers think Matthew used Luke or Luke used Matthew, although there is more evidence that Matthew used Luke. I do not think that Matthew used Luke, but that they must have had common sources. If Matthew used Luke, the latter would have to have a few years to become popular. I date Luke Near 80.

4. JOHN'S GOSPEL

4. JOHN'S GOSPEL

A. Purpose

1. John's Gospel is designed to illustrate the established or assumed conclusion, that Christ and the Logos are one. It is doctrinal rather than historical. He forgets persons and situations as soon as they meet his purpose, and is not interested in history as such; to him it is the spiritual things which count.

2. John is written to reconcile two views, Mark's Gospel of Jesus of History and Paul's Cosmic Christ.

3. John tries to show the relationship of Christianity to the school of the Baptists; 1:6-8; 19-25; 3:22-36; 4:1; 5:33, 36; 10:40f; 41:4.

4. John aims to give an apology for the Christian Faith as apposed to Judaism.

5. John tries to do for the world what Matthew did for the Jewish Christianity and Luke did for the Roman world. He adapted Christianity to the stories and beliefs of Hellenistic Gnosticism, by restating the christian message in terms of the current philosophy, such as (1) new birth, (2) sacraments, (3) logos.

6. John lifts the Jesus out of the human into the divine. He relates the Beloved Hero to the Eternal, by relating Jesus or Christ to the Logos. In this he shows that Christ is like the Eternal, and all who turn to him can be saved.

B. Characteristics

1. John's Gospel is not written for its historical element, but to impart spiritual truths.

2. The author's perspective is long after Jesus' life and only the events stand out.

3. John used symbols in relating his facts.

1. The first part of the report deals with the general situation of the country and the progress of the work during the year.

2. The second part of the report deals with the results of the work during the year.

3. The third part of the report deals with the financial statement of the year.

4. The fourth part of the report deals with the general remarks of the year.

5. The fifth part of the report deals with the general remarks of the year.

6. The sixth part of the report deals with the general remarks of the year.

4. John's Gospel is a composition, not a compilation like the synoptics.

5. John's Gospel is not consistent. Frequently it makes a statement and then contradicts it in the next sentence (not human or material yet the crucifixion, weeping and eating is human and material)

6. John's Gospel is a real drama. The teachings are given in the form of a monologue, which reveals the nature and mission of the speaker. Yet he does not use the Roman style of having the speaker use his own words. He uses the Greek style of putting into the mouth of the speaker the sentiments which seem best to meet the writers needs for the occasion.

7. Some writers describe John's Gospel as a religious romance, like Pilgrim's Progress.

8. Gardner, in the "Ephesian Gospel", 1915, p 293, states it this way, "The life of Jesus is immersed in water, so the reflection varies in proportion to the dept."

C. Date of John's Gospel

The dating of John's Gospel has been of wide range. Dealing with the scholarship of the past 101 years, we find the earliest date is by Reithmayr of 1852, Alford of 1862, Wittichen of 1876, and Weymouth of 1902 at 70. The Latest date by Baur of 1847, Scholten of 1856, and Baurer of 1908 at 170. Most of the scholars up to 1900 have placed it between 70 and 140. The men after 1900 have as a whole placed it between 80 and 100.

The arguments for the writing after 70 are based on his use of Mark. The Arguments for the writing after 80 are based on his use of Luke, which must have been old enough to allow for circulation and adoption as a text in the Christian worship. John did not use Matthew for one or more of the following reasons; (1) It was not old enough and he had not read it; (2) John did not like the Jewish sentiment; (3) John did not like the parousia element.

The arguments for the writing before 100 are based on the philosophical teachings, which were current in the the last decade of the first century and are incorporated in this book.

I think the fourth Gospel was written between 90 and 95.

5. THE GOSPELS USED

6. THE ORDER OF THE GOSPELS

7. THE SYNOPTIC PROBLEM

5. The Gospels Used

I am seeking the Primitive and Historical material of Jesus's teachings. The first three Gospels contain most of this material, that is Matthew, Mark and Luke. John is not written to give the history of Jesus, but to tell a religious truth about the Christ. We see changes in the stories and events to meet this need of purpose. So for my study I will only use the three called the Synoptic Gospels, namely Matthew, Mark and Luke.

6. The order of the Gospels

The dating of the Gospels places them in the following order, Mark, Luke and Matthew. This has a bearing on the designation of Primitive material.

7. The Synoptic Problem

1. The four Gospels were not recognized by the Christian Church as rivals, but as parallel versions of the same fundamental message "The Good News About Jesus."

2. Mark contains 661 verses. Matthew has reproduced the substance of over 600 of Mark's verses. Matthew employs 51% of Mark's words. Luke used about one half of Mark or 350 verses. Luke used 53% of the words of Mark. Matthew omits 10% of Mark. Luke omits 45% of Mark. All but 50 verses of Mark are found in Matthew or Luke.

3. Luke does not disturb the order of Mark.

4. Matthew enlarges Mark.

5. Luke incorporated considerable portions of Mark.

6. Matthew was trying to take Mark as an outline and to fit his other material into it (conflation).

7. Where Matthew varies or departs from the order of Mark, Luke supports Mark. Where ever Luke departs Matthew supports Mark. Mark 3:31-35 alone occurs in a different context in each Gospel.

8. There is no place where Matthew and Luke agree together against Mark in a point of arrangement.

9. About one sixth of Luke's Gospel agrees with Matthew in Non-Markian material.

10. Matthew and Mark agree against Luke 1600 Words. Mark and Luke agree against Matthew 860 Words. Matthew and Luke against Mark 275 Words. (Tischendorf text)

1. The first group of people who are interested in the study of the history of the world are the historians. They are people who study the past and try to understand what happened and why it happened. They use a variety of sources, including books, documents, and artifacts, to reconstruct the past. They also try to understand the people who lived in the past and how they thought and felt. Historians are interested in the history of the world because it helps them to understand the present and the future.

VII. The Primitive Historical Material

1. PRIMITIVE

A few guiding principles in choosing the primitive.

1. Three fold material-Mark is usually primitive.

- a. Stumbling blocks- Matthew and Luke either remove them or alter them.
- b. Where they differ from Mark it can be explained by interpretation.
- c. They omit Mark if it is not fitting to their thought.
- d. If they add material to Mark it is due to Purpose.
- e. List of Quotations are in Matthew to prove his point.
- f. In the order of sections Matthew and Luke do not agree against Mark.
- g. In words Matthew and Luke agree against Mark by 275 in 175 instances and 20 of these are from "but" to "and".
- h. We can understand Matthew and Luke by reading Mark.

2. In the Two Fold material- Luke is usually primitive where Matthew and Luke agree.

- a. Luke is personal; direct; detailed, historical setting;
- b. Matthew is more general; softens Luke; interest in the church; sermon order.

c. Luke takes the material in blocks or leaves it out.

Where Matthew and Mark agree-choose Mark, see above.

Where Luke and Mark agree-choose Mark, see above.

3. Single tradition

a. We take it as primitive, because it is the only one.

4. Conclusion

a. Mark is usually primitive.

b. Luke is second in primitivity.

c. Matthew is last.

this classification is tentative only.

2. To find the Primitive from the Historical point of view.

1. Take only the primitive as stated above.

2. Delete what we recognize as specifically Gentile.

3. Be on guard for interpretation of history as distinct from the facts themselves.

4. Be suspicious of passages that support the institution of the Christians and of the Christian church.

5. Does it meet the 20th Century ideal of history?

6. Could it have happened in our day?

7. Have we ever seen anything like?

8. Does it sound reasonable?

9. Who could have heard it?
